church will be held in the vestry on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

C. Bau of Franklin street was a business visitor in Northfield to-day.

Frank Laseur of Webster street, who has been spending the past few days in Randolph, returned to this city to-day.

Miss Blanche Loring, who has been visiting at the home of her uncle, A. J. Loring, of Sumner street, during the past three months, returned to her home at Sherbrooke, P. Q., this morning.

Charles McCarthy of Summer street returned to this city to-day from Wallingford, Me., where he has been visiting relatives for the past two weeks, after having spent the summer at Old Orchard, Me.

Clyde J. Lawless, who has been visiting several places in Massachusetts, returned home Saturday afternoon, accompanied by his aunt, Miss Elsie C. Wolfe, a graduate nurse of the Holyoke City hospital.

The party who took the overcoat from the automobile standing outside the dance hall at North Montpelier last Friday night is known and can save inconvenience by returning the same to the Times office.

Frank Coombs, who has been employed as porter at the hotel Otis for the past few months, has completed his duties and returned to his former home at Burlington. Mr. Coombs has been offered a position in one of the large winter hotels at Tampa, Fla., and is contemplating the prospects.

Monday's arrivals at the hotel Otis were as follows: William Hiney, Burlington; William Green, Wilmington; D. A. Roberts, Elmira, N. Y.; Benjamin G. Hall, Marlboro, N. H.; Joseph Wark, Hardwick; A. E. Johnson, Boston; Miss Evelyn Morrill, Boston; John Lavery, Rutland; H. M. Wilder, Boston; G. A. Payne, Burlington; E. L. Wallen, Middlesex; C. A. Derby, Philadelphia; C. W. Coleman, St. Louis.

Friends in this city of Leslie Wright will be interested to learn of his capture of the first prize in the 100-yard dash at the Labor day festivities at Des Moines, Ia. Another Barre lad was entertained, Albert Milne. There was a large field of entries and both runners survived the trial heat. In the final heat Wright crossed the tape a winner, with Milne also inside the money. The officials in charge of the sports thought Wright was a professional and the identity of the Barre lad's record was compromised.

The opera house was filled last night with theatregoers for the presentation of Joseph M. Gaites' musical comedy,

"The Three Twins," which depends on the trouble of three gentlemen, who so closely resemble each other as to be in confusion all the time. Marion Morton, as Kate Armitage, the sweetheart of one of the "twins," instantly won the approval of the audience, and her singing was the best of the evening.

With a winning personality and a sweet voice, she was repeatedly called back. Especially was she enjoyed in the

"Cuddle Up a Little Closer, Loveymine." In her song, "The Little Girl

Up There," the "faceograph" was introduced, a clever scheme by which the face of one of the chorus girls was reflected on the curtain at the rear of the stage. The electric swing, at the close of the first act, was an innovation and illuminated by hundreds of electric lights, made a pretty scene. Marie Sabbott, as Molly Summers, proved herself an excellent dancer, when she appeared at the close of the comedy with the Yama Yama girls. There were chorus girls aplenty to support the stars and in the finale, "The Three Twins" had straightened out their troubles and each had found the woman of his choice.
